

Pupils dress up for World Book Day

CHILDREN from Ursuline Preparatory School in Brentwood got dressed up as book characters for World Book Day.

Classes wore clothing themed to the books they are currently reading as a group with costumes including rabbits, ducks and Second World War evacuees.

The school has also held a book week which saw them launch a book called Tales of Mystery and Magic.

Each class has contributed a chapter to the book with pupils being given a copy.

